WINE'S WORLD

Connecticut-based DAVID SPON designs custom cellars to help people who live for their wine live with it. He likes to incorporate several storage options in a single cellar; his signature shallow-cove storage (above, center)—recessed just five inches into the wall—showcases magnums or Champagnes whose bottles do not stack well in traditional slot shelves, bins or cases. To keep track of a collection, Spon favors the programs described at cartedevin.com and invictuswinegroup.com, both of which scan bar codes or labels to create a digital log. Spon suggests sorting by region and keeping ready-to-drink bottles between waist and chest level for easy access. Cheers to that! Prices on request. davidspn.com.
